CONFLAGRATION AT PANAMA CITY

LOSS WILL NOT EXCEED ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS

Warehouse and Docks Damaged and Lot of Turpentine and Rosin Consumed.

Yesterday morning at about seven thirty, fire destroyed the warehouse and part of the top works of the docks of the A. and St. A. B. Road at Panama City.

A freight engine in backing onto the dock, struck a barrel of spirits of turpentine, breaking it open. The spirits ran under the engine and were ignited by fire from the firebox. The steamer Manteo was just leaving the St. Andrews dock. Hearing the alarm, the Captain ran the steamer over and with his crew and engine, succeeded in extinguishing the blaze. The warehouse, half a car of merchandise, thirty-five barrels of spirits and forty barrels of rosin were burned besides the damage to the docks. The loss to the docks and warehouse will not exceed one thousand dollars. It is not known what was the value of the naval stores and merchandise.

PRESBYTERIAN SUNDAY SCHOOL FICION.

The Presbyterian Sunday School will have their annual picnic at Spring Creek next Tuesday, June 4th. They will have a special car which will be attached to the regular passenger train leaving Dothan at 8:45 in the morning.

Each member of the school is entitled to the privilege of inviting one friend. There will be no tickets sold, the Sunday School paying for the car. If you are not a member of the school all you need for transportation is an invitation.

BOOK TELLING OF DOTHAN.

The Dothan Commercial Club has gotten out a booklet on Dothan. It is no trouble for one to say something good of Dothan, and the Club being in the business, has gone into the matter in such a way as is calculated to interest the man who is about to make a change in locality; the man looking for new fields; the man looking for a place to come and live, and enjoy life.

This book tells many things of Dothan, and the story is not overdrawn. The Club had 1,000 of these books printed; they were printed in Dothan, and within its pages are many attractive half-tones of the business houses and places of interest.

If you happen to know of some good man who is looking around, who wants to make a change, hand such information to the Secretary of the Club, and a book will be mailed them.

Messrs. C. J. Faulk and W. R. Fennille, who went to Montgomery with Mr. E. R. Malone to help "select" an auto, "selected" one yesterday. It is a beauty, a 34 H. P. Rambler touring car. Mess. Faulk and Fennille made the trip through the country in it yesterday, leaving Montgomery about nine in the morning and getting to Dothan about six in the afternoon. They stopped an hour or two at Troy.

THE REVIVAL SERVICES.

The Revival Services of the Baptist Church deepen daily. Large congregations were present at both services yesterday. There were six additions during the day.

Mrs. Eddins' singing grows more popular with each song. At the morning service she sang "Mother's Prayer," bringing the congregation to tears. At the evening service there was "death stillness" as she sang "Eternity." Mrs. Eddins' singing, while cultured to the highest degree, speaks directly to the heart.

$225.00 Reward!

$100.00 offered by G. W. Smith, $25.00 by T. W. Butler, Sheriff, and $100.00 by The Governor of Alabama, for the arrest and detention in any jail of one Arthur M. Prince, a white man charged with an Assault with Intent to Murder, which was committed in Dothan, Houston County, Alabama, on Monday, May 17th, by cutting his wife, Annie M. Prince's throat with razor.

The above reward will be paid on the arrest and delivery of Arthur M. Prince to T. W. Butler, Sheriff Houston County, Alabama, at Dothan, Ala.

The only place in town to get sheet music. Rapport Music Co.

THE OTHER SIDE.

Gen. W. C. Oates writes of the acts of the prison at Point Lookout, Maryland. He contrasts that prison with the one at Andersonville, and shows that Lookout was worse, and had no excuse for it.

We do not like to help open those old wounds, but there were actual protests that friends should raise a monument to Wirz.

Prisoners were not delightful anywhere, but those two, Lookout and Andersonville were types. There are hundreds of men living today who saw Confederate soldiers come home from that awful prison in Maryland just as there are hundreds north who saw men go home from Andersonville. There is no doubt about the horrors of either place.

Wirz, the keeper at Andersonville, was hanged by the government, it was really a lynching of a man who did his duty. That is why a monument has been raised to him. It is intended to rectify in a degree the wrong done him, and call attention to the facts of history.

Men in prison do not expect luxuries and liberty. There was no medicine in the South for the prisoners at Andersonville, and here was plenty of medicine and plenty of food for the prisoners at Lookout, and both were denied them.

Gen. Oates statement will not be questioned. Andersonville was bad because the Confederate government could not help it. Lookout was bad because the union government would not help it.—Birmingham Ledger.

Wednesday, June 2, 1909.

No casualties reported from yesterday, although it was a hazardous day.

This was a mild spring we had, the one just turned the corner, but this start on summer is a hummer.

A month ago we were all reading of Capt. Hains, and today you can't remember what the sentence was if there has ever been one passed.

The sidewalks are being put down around the new bank building, and the grade lines were changed till the walks will be higher than were the old ones.

History doesn't stick with all of us. For instance, who was the vice president before the gentleman now shooting sparrows in Africa? Oh, you can look him up through the encyclopedia, or Who's Who.

Mr. and Mrs. Bean, out in Iowa, recently had a daughter born to them and have named her "Lima," and the Washington Herald is put out about it. But then they might have named her "Snap."—Montgomery Advertiser.

Or worse still, "String."

One of the discharged negro firemen from the Georgia railroad will be sent north by Bishop Turner to tell the story of how it all happened. And thus another industrious negro will go to the dogs; that is, he will never be worth killing. He will be lucky if he gets back without a medal and a novel or two written about him.

Secretary Dickinson has recommended that the military appropriations be cut to $20,000,000 less than they were before—and this shows how easy it is to save one's salary. If Mr. Taft's other cabinet members show this spirit of economy, there is no reason why the old homestead mortgage shouldn't be paid off in time, and allow us to come from under the heels of grinding debt, and enjoy the fresh, free air of independence.

TO DOTHAN.

"I wish we could go to Dothan this year," said George Ross, alderman from third ward. "I went to Cumberland Island last year and had such a jolly time and found such congenial company that I want to know more of the newspaper men. There are a dozen or so from Bessemer who would go if they were invited. I would like to see Dothan anyhow as I have heard it is the banner city of that part of the country; of course I do not mean that I would expect some free privileges as the editors, but would make the trip with them if I could."

We have often wondered why cities would extend invitations to the Press Association do not also make an effort to get visitors from all sections to "look over their city" and arrange so that their visit would be interesting even though they paid for it.—Bessemer Times.

Tell George to come on; we will

A few days ago we spoke of the old man from Dakota, or somewhere in the Northwest, who came back to Georgia to visit old friends and relatives, and who was arrested and jailed, to serve out a ten-year sentence that had been resting against him thirty odd years. He was convicted in 1873, and served a part of the sentence, and made his escape, went west, was married and raised a family. In his declining years, he decided to go back to an old home, and following out this inclination, was arrested. A movement was put on foot to have Governor Smith pardon him and it was successful. The Governor pardoned him the other day and now the old man is happy. He was a prominent citizen of north Georgia, but got mixed up in politics, was elected sheriff, and clerk, and was one of the boys you had to consult to get anything in his county; but things went against him, and he was convicted for stealing a horse—said to have been the work of political enemies. But it worked wonders. Now the old man is happy and free again.

TO STUDY THE SUN.

Prof. Abbott, of the Smithsonian Institute, has left in much haste for California, where he will investigate thoroughly the heat from the rays of the sun. Possibly going there to witness the setting sun. He might come to Alabama, any time from now till the 5th of September, and gather much data as to the heat, if he will go about it right. He would be surprised, if he would go to a mill pond or a creek, and spend a couple of hours in bathing; with out a bathing suit, and then witness the result—two days later, when the outer skin will begin to peel off; provided, of course, he stands about where the sun can get a square lick at his back. Another effective method of testing the sun's rays is to get in the corn field and pull fodder by the side of a bow-legged Alabama negro, the singing kind, the kind that will smash a knotty watermelon over every stump. If he will keep up with this pleasing specimen, round for round, he will be ready to coil up at night, by the sweet smelling fodder stack, and the fresh cured blades, dampened by the dews, will make a pillow that is as comfortable as the wool from old mother goose. He will learn tricks from the sun, and the sun's rays, and the sun-of-a-gun that works him to death, that he would entirely overlook in California.

Come South, professor, and soak up on the data from the setting he rising, and the noonday sun, he sun that shines brightly, warmly, cheerfully, but earnestly.

Joseph was among the most successful advertisers. He found that it paid for when his successful corner on breadstuffs in the corn belt of Egypt was completed, he didn't have to sit down and wait. However, we must say that he didn't buy a Tom Lawson space in the daily papers and the magazines. He let the news leak out, though, that he had enough corn and to spare, for was it not his father who said, "I have heard that there is corn in Egypt?" Of course he had heard the news, for those who bought of Joseph spread the news.

You let a famine strike one section of our fair land now, and some Patten, or Joseph, will come out in flaming lines and tell the people who has the stuff to spare. One may insert a want ad in a paper and be directed where to buy the vacant lot. By the same act, he can get on trade of some lumber, nails, brick, lime, hardware, paint—and a carpenter. When he is ready to move in, and has no one to scrape out the breadtray, he can insert a different kind of a want ad and get in touch (on the quiet) with some person who is willing to share the building on a partnership basis. This kind of an ad must needs be handled very carefully, for although many marriages have been consummated by advertising methods, still the parties to the contract wish the matter dropped, once they are married. They never refer to the manner in which they were attracted to each other, and we don't see why. That is a perfectly legitimate thing to do, and, we think, a sensible one, when both parties are willing to make a change and no one in their list of friends see it in the light.

Five years from now the churches will be good advertising patrons to the daily papers in some places. The preachers are seeing what crowds flock to the lecture halls, to the theatres, to other places, and the preachers will not see this go on forever. They are as enterprising as business men, and the board of deacons, or stewards, will appoint an advertising committee to properly put out some important matters before the public, enough to get hat public into the pews.

Uncle Sam, staid old fogey that he is, advertises his business to a fare-you-well, in a quiet, dignified way, in a way that other institutions do not always follow, for the reason that their business differs from that of our Uncle's.

That Uncle of ours advertises for men to join his army, his navy, his different branches of the civil service, and illustrates the ads. with gorgeous lithographs, showing army officers (most always officers) lounging about an ideal army post, drinking soft drinks, or walking around, for exercise, with handsomely gowned society women, to the splendid music of the regimental band. All these things he does, and more. He gets out a catalogue and price list, showing what a snap it is to have your printing done by his folks; showing how much cheaper it is to do business with the government instead of with private individuals. He will, in time, go into the banking business. The time will come when money will be deposited in the local postoffices, and checks drawn on the account, just as they are today with our banks. Uncle Sam may find it profitable to enter other fields of business, in competition with his subjects, and when he does he will advertise, like other good and enterprising firms.

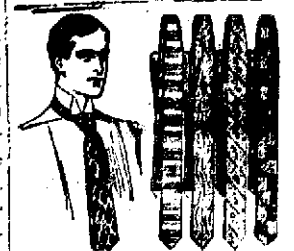

Advertising is a business that is here to stay. They who stay in business will advertise, too, when they try it long enough the other way.

It Is No Joke!

IT is not an imitation of, substitute for, or like anything else. IT is compounded from the original formula which created a demand for "Coke" drinks. IMPROVED, chief among which improvements was the leaving out of "that from which Cocaine is derived."

IT is compounded by our own chemist—WE know what we are giving you.

IT is not an experiment, having been bottled at Andalusia for four years, where IT is still the most popular carbonated drink in the territory.

IT has all the fatigue relieving qualities, none of the hurtful and a taste will convince you that there is something in "the know how" of carbonating the water—even. See that the three words, "IT", "Coke", "Murphy" appear on the crown.
